Author Guidelines

AmSECToday is the official newsletter for the American Society of ExtraCorporeal Technology. Its purpose is to disseminate society, profession-level, and thematically organized topical information to members on a quarterly basis. This publication also serves as the primary media between the President of the organization and its members.

Topics emphasized in AmSECToday include:

Current Profession Issues	ECMO	Education & Technology	Evidence-Based Medicine
Ex-Vivo Perfusion	Heart & Lung Failure	Interdisciplinary Professionalism	Interdisciplinary Understanding
Infection Control	Laboratory/Transfusion Medicine	Mechanical Support	Myocardial Preservation
Patient Blood Management	Patient & Perfusionist Safety	Pediatric & Congenital Perfusion	Pharmacology
Quality Outcomes	Special Procedures	Systems Physiology	Transplants

AmSECToday serves a subscription base of perfusionists, anesthesiologists, surgeons, and researchers from 31 countries. Original and sponsored content submissions are considered for publication.
You are currently reading guidelines for non-commercial content authors.
Please see Sponsored Content Guidelines for commercial content authors.

Regular columns and features include:

- President's Message
- Society News
- Volunteer Information
- Committee Updates
- Conference Information & Reviews
- Thematic Educational Articles
- Invited Feature Articles
- Self Quiz
- International Collaborations

Article types include but are not limited to:

- News
- Editorial
- Review (topic or book)
- Case Report/Discussion
- Technique
- Letters to the Editor

Standards for Prospective Authors

AmSECToday is a non-peer reviewed digital publication which contains original articles conceived and submitted by volunteer authors. Author(s) should be able to attest that the works are substantially original compositions, all authors are listed, text is not substantially recycled from other published works of any author, and source documents are verified to exist and are properly cited. Real or perceived conflicts of interest, relevant financial support or other pertinent disclosures must be explicitly disclosed in an acknowledgment statement at the end of the manuscript.

Artificial Intelligence (AI) may not be used to generate content for submission except to support authors in researching, developing, editing, formatting, illustrating or citing their original ideas and work products. Authors are responsible and accountable for ensuring the validity of statements, citations, figures, images, and all works created with AI support. Authors must disclose the tool and extent of its use whenever AI beyond a spelling, grammar, or reference manager tool is used.

AmSECToday is not an indexed publication nor does AmSECT accept copyright for works published. Authors statements and opinions are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of AmSECT, the editors or the publisher.

All submissions will be screened for duplication using software before publication. Submissions will be evaluated for instances of explicit plagiarism and scored for similarity to other published documents accessible to the software. High similarity scores generally indicate a need for rephrasing previously published ideas and/or that additional care is taken to ensure restated ideas are directly quoted or meticulously cited. Authors are encouraged to evaluate their manuscripts during writing and before submission to strengthen the quality and integrity of their work.

AmSECToday will aspire to respond to concerns of compromised scientific integrity, plagiarism, copyright infringement and ethical transgressions according to current best practices guidance of the Committee on Publication Ethics (publicationethics.org) and in consultation with the AmSECT Ethics Committee and Board of Directors. Remedies may include publishing an erratum or corrigendum, retracting an article, and/or other confidential actions determined appropriate by AmSECT.

Preparing a Submission

Authors in AmSECToday may be recruited or volunteer to write regularly, periodically or a single piece. New authors seeking publication in AmSECToday are encouraged to contact the editor-in-chief to discuss their topic, the optimal issue(s) for publication of their work, submission deadlines and the editorial process.

Submission files should adhere to the following points:

- Microsoft Word document

- Times New Roman or Calibri 12 point font, single spaced
- Images, no more than 5, preferred as high res png or jpg files, 72 dpi resolution
- Length within word count; concise, logically organized writing for maximum readability.
- Title, author names and credentials and complete in-line numbered referencing and reference list (format not otherwise specified).
- Introduction paragraph states a clear purpose; discussion paragraphs develop and argue main ideas, and conclusion paragraph summarizes main points and their relative importance
- Subheadings and/or subsections may be employed to effectively organize the flow of longer articles.
- Any acronyms or abbreviations should be spelled out and followed in parentheses by the abbreviated form

	Maximum Word Counts -Includes bio and references -Each image subtract 200 words
President's Message	400
Zone Report	400
Feature/Cover Story	2000
Invited Authors	1000-1500
All Columns	1000-1500
Conference Information & Reviews	1000-1500
Self Quiz	1000

Additional information required for publication includes a professional-appearing headshot photo of the author(s), email/social media links the author(s) would like publicized, and a short biography of the author(s).

Submission, Review & Publication

Submissions and supporting documents should be emailed to the editor-in-chief for editorial review and processing on or before the deadline for the issue of AmSECToday in which the article is intended to run. Production schedules are shared annually with regular authors and with email reminders sent to authors contributing to a given issue.

The editor-in-chief will review each submission for gross inaccuracies, make edits for clarity and readability or return the revised file to the author for any additional or major revisions. Copyediting may be provided by AmSECT headquarters staff.

Checklist for Submission: Due Jan15 (Q1) Apr 15 (Q2), Jul 15 (Q3), Oct 15(Q4)

Authors are encouraged to print and check off completion of the following points prior to emailing their final submission

Attestations implied by submission are met?

- The work is a substantially original composition
- Text is not substantially recycled from other published works of the author(s)
- Source documents are verified to be real and properly cited
- Any real or perceived conflicts of interest or relevant financial support are disclosed
- Any AI tool and the extent of its use, beyond a spelling, grammar, or reference manager tool, is disclosed.
- Statements and opinions are acknowledged as those of the author(s) and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of AmSECT, the editors or the publisher.

Manuscript and supporting information files attached?

- Manuscript meeting formatting recommendations
- Images meeting formatting recommendations
- Author(s) short biography and credentials
- Author(s) professional-appearing headshot photo